

TRIAL ATTORNEYS
DEPARTMENT OF JUSTICE
COMPUTER CRIME AND INTELLECTUAL PROPERTY SECTION
WASHINGTON, D.C.

---

About the Office: This Section is responsible for implementing a comprehensive program designed to address the growing threat of computer and intellectual property crime .

Responsibilities and Opportunity Offered: As part of these initiatives, Section attorneys are responsible for resolving unique law enforcement issues raised by emerging computer and telecommunications technologies. Attorney responsibilities include participating in the investigation and prosecution of cases; providing counsel on high-tech issues to prosecutors and agents; public speaking, training, and outreach with foreign, federal, state, and local law enforcement agents and prosecutors and the private sector; commenting upon and proposing legislation; and coordinating international efforts to combat computer and intellectual property crime. The Section also drafts policies and monographs addressing significant issues relating to its responsibilities. Applicants are encouraged to visit the Section's Web site, www.cybercrime.gov, which provides further information on the work of the Section.

Qualifications: Applicants must have a strong academic background, as well as excellent research and communication skills (both oral and written), plus a knowledge of and interest in computers, telecommunications networks and other emerging technologies. International training and experience and fluency in other languages are a plus. Upon accepting an offer of employment, applicants must make a three-year commitment to the Criminal Division.

Required qualifications: Interested parties must possess a J.D. degree, be admitted to practice before the bar of any U.S. jurisdiction and be an active member of that bar and have at least two (2) years post-J.D. experience.

---

Preferred qualifications: Federal criminal prosecution or related law enforcement experience.

Travel: Domestic and international travel is possible.

Salary Information: GS-13: $72,108 - $93,742 per annum
GS-14: $85,210 - $110,775 per annum
